Mr. Allen W. Dulles, Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Dear Allen:

I have your telegram of January 15 and have noted carefully its contents.

I saw Senator McCarthy briefly on my last visit to Washington. He had prepared certain typewritten material which he said referred in some instances to affairs of your agency. I left by plane for Charleston immediately after the conference and have not had an opportunity to go over this material. I will do so and if there is anything which seems to require immediate attention on your part, you can rest assured that I will discuss the information with you.

I'll be coming back to Washington shortly, and we'll have a chat. I agree fully that should data come into my hands which appears to require immediate remedial action on your part, you should have the opportunity to initiate such action.

Frank W. Clark
Sincerely

Mark W. Clark
